WHAT'S IT ABOUT ?

Green space and biodiversity is about enhancing, enjoying, and protecting Cookstown's natural environment. The town benefits from a tree-lined main street and is surrounded by rich parklands and waterways, yet within the town centre itself opportunities to dwell in nature are limited. People told us they want more spaces to pause, connect, and experience the wellbeing benefits that green space brings. By strengthening biodiversity and weaving more green into the town, this theme aims to improve health, wellbeing, and climate resilience, while fostering pride of place and a stronger connection between people and nature.
